

WWP News & Media: Veteran Group Outings, Charity Events, Helping Vets

Beards: Gas-Mask Obstruction, Camouflage, and Cultural Icon

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 30, 2017 /PRNewswire-USNewswire/ -- The month of November draws to a close, and razor companies everywhere are breathing easier again as legions of men resume trimming their facial hair. If you spent the last month scratching the unfamiliar fur on your face, congratulations, you made it through No-shave November. The month-long tradition has roots in supporting worthy causes and raising awareness by growing a beard. For others, it's a way to justify not shaving for an entire month due to laziness. For others still, it's a test of manly prowess to see who among a group of friends can grow the biggest beard in a month.

Often, regardless of motivation or reason, the beard gets trimmed or shaven off entirely at the end of the month.

However, for some service members like those in the Special Forces, every day is No-shave November. At Wounded Warrior Project® (WWP), we recognize while the act of shaving relates to personal grooming and discipline, in some situations, the presence of a beard can mean the difference between life and death.

To read the full article, visit <http://newsroom.woundedwarriorproject.org/highlights?item=30913>.

About Wounded Warrior Project

Wounded Warrior Project® (WWP) connects, serves, and empowers wounded warriors. Read more at <http://newsroom.woundedwarriorproject.org/about-us>.

SOURCE Wounded Warrior Project

For further information: Mattison Brooks - Public Relations, Email: mbrooks@woundedwarriorproject.org, Phone: 904.646.6897

Additional assets available online: Photos \(1\)

<https://newsroom.woundedwarriorproject.org/2017-11-30-Beards-Gas-Mask-Obstruction-Camouflage-and-Cultural-Icon>