SYNOPSIS

After surviving an IED explosion in combat overseas, Marshall Bennett (Michael Roark), a young soldier in the Army Motorcycle Unit, is medically discharged and told that one more accident could mean he may never walk again. When he gets home to the family farm and his young wife (Allison Paige) and son, he discovers that his dad (Trace Adkins), is behind on the mortgage and may lose the farm. Against all odds, Bennett pledges to help his family by the only means he knows how...to get back on his bike and do what he does best.
